

5-MINUTE WEBSITE CHECK

Six quick wins for a website that works while you don't.

No forms, no jargon - just six spots regional businesses lose customers online, and one small fix for each. Read through, pick your one action, and do it this week.

01 · FIRST IMPRESSION

Your homepage has seconds to land.

A visitor decides whether to stay or leave almost immediately. If they can't tell what you do, who it's for and where you're based straight away, you've lost them.

DO THIS

Rewrite your homepage headline to say what you do, who you help, and your location - in one line.

02 · GETTING FOUND

Your Google profile is part of your shopfront.

A Google Business Profile left unclaimed or half-finished is one of the easiest ways to lose local customers to a competitor who bothered to fill theirs in.

DO THIS

Log in, check your hours, photos and category are current, and add one recent update or photo.

03 · MAKING CONTACT

Don't make people hunt for you.

If a phone number, email or enquiry form takes more than one click to find, some visitors simply won't bother - even if they were ready to buy.

DO THIS

Put your phone number or enquiry button in the header, visible on every page.

04 · MOBILE EXPERIENCE

Most people meet you on a phone first.

Tiny text, buttons that need a precise tap, or menus that don't open properly all quietly push mobile visitors away before they read a word.

DO THIS

Open your own site on your phone and try to find your contact details and one product or service in under 10 seconds.

05 · ANSWERING QUESTIONS

Every FAQ is a sale happening without you.

The questions you answer on the phone every week are the same ones stopping website visitors from enquiring. Put the answers on the page.

DO THIS

Write down the three questions you're asked most, and add them as a short FAQ.

06 · BEING UNDERSTOOD BY AI

AI tools are reading your site too now.

Search engines and AI tools use the words, structure and context on your website to understand what your business does - including how clearly your images are described.

DO THIS

Add clear, plain-English alt text to your five most important website images.

MY ONE ACTION AFTER TODAY